So you won't be at a loss for words, k00k, when usenet slang is used in any threads you happen to be reading. "Cwever", "snecked", and "froups" are all usenet slang, not not-English.

Don't forget to thank me for letting you get away with calling me "kook", BTW, k00k.

Oh, no, by all means, get it yourself. I'm just posting to usenet, in a Bandwidth isn't for saving, it's for using as we please. If you're stuck

Fear not, they're being taunted too, for being Busted Urinals with no redeeming qualities. They're just not boring -- yet. You may be sure that they will ultimately win the GK as well...

> I chose your inane taunting

Fine, we(tinw) shall taunt you until you win -- then we(tinw) shall killfile you, and continue investigating the k00ks in your rec.radio.*
froups for the next several years. I imagine it'll take that long for them to win their awards -- there is much competition for them, and new k00ks appear all the time.

[Hint for whoever started the x-posts from rec.radio.*: Using AUK to do your dirty work often backfires.]

Yeah, that's why I was saying we should have a camp-out. My mom could call your mom, or whatever. But just forget it. You had to go and get all "weird" about it. Just fucking forget it.

It's everyone's fucking business, Outer Filth. You just don't get it, that's all. That's why you're co-nominated for Clueless Newbie of the Month, along with Harrington and Crackhead. You were better off as only one or two people, you know -- you want to be three, you can be three.

I think I'm the fuckhead kookologist who's been kicking your arse around usenet this month, that's who. Been telling all sorts of people that you are Outer Filth.

> Endless, pointless cross-posting to long lists of groups, disrupting > usenet for thousands of innocent people.

Your favourite classical music recordings group has been claimed in the name of Fluffy and the 2-Belo, the Emperors of MEOW. You are not welcome there.

> Usenet improves communication around the planet, and then > a bald asshole comes and tries to disrupt it, for what?

I'll have you know my hair is quite long. Usenet is primarily a medium for entertainment. Any intelligent discussion which may take place is entirely incidental to this purpose.

> What the fuck do you keep disrupting people's communications for, > asshole?

As the Secretary to the Emperors-in-absentia, I am fully empowered to "disrupt" communications for any and all purposes of MEOW, including the dispersal of news about Outer Filth to every Dominion, enclave, territory and ally of Teh Empire.

> Maybe I was annoying one asshole, you don't know why.

You explained why. He said mean and nasty things about yourself (if you were not one of those so insulted, the balsa plank on which I believed you were standing does not exist) and others in the form of limericks (which are generally supposed to be off-colour, by tradition). You and your buddies responded by becoming Outer Filth. There is no excuse, no reason, no explanation, no justification that can possibly get you off this. I strongly suggest you abandon usenet, and stick to private listservs from now on. You are clearly not up to dealing with your opponents in flamewars without resorting to cowardly measures, Outer Filth.

> You're annoying thousands, for absolutely no reason.

"Thousands"? Hmmm, well, maybe. "For no reason"? In the opinion of Outer Filth, which is about as relevant as the opinion of pond scum.

Mark annoyed and bored us(tinu) with his spamming net.KKKoppery, so he gets the GK all by himself, while you lot get a joint BU. Don't worry, Wabbit, we'll(tinw) see that you get all you deserve. Your very own Whatever... I actually know the previous fag personnally... Not because we're friends, but because I banged his sister a couple of times....

He spends most of his free-time with his buddy "Cheeser" getting his ass beat around Haverford High School.....

The rest of his time they're with his his Buffy and Firefly LARP (L:ive Action Role Playing) groups.... While I screw his sister on the couch in the basement (thats right you fucking dork, the same one you watch Buffy on, ha)

Oh, by the way Judson, your sister told me about how she caught you jerking off watchin WWE (twice).... she said the second time, it was definitely an all-male match (!)

I can see you have decided to come online to attempt to find solidarity with the other geeks and fucktards, but even I seriously doubt they are quite the sub-human mess that you are....

Which brings me back to my original question.... Are all male buffy fans Fags?

(by the way, for someone that is such a HUGE geek, I'd think you'd be a little smarter... take a writing class or something, I nodded off twice before I finneshed reading that garbage you wrote)

P.S. Tell your sis to call me.

Oh by the by, if you finished reading that last post and the best you could come up with was "learn to spell," you should just give up....

I know YOUR reply was on its third draft, but I refuse to spend any more time than I have to dispatching with you.... Besides, If I need to brush up on my spelling, I'll "study" at YOUR house, with YOUR sister....

Learn to spell.

Um, yeah, Tabitha told me all about the time you got her drunk and stole her virginity. She's retarded, you jackass. Do you have any idea how awkward it is to get a retarded girl checked for Hepatitis? I hope you're happy with yourself.

As for your cracks about my writing ability, my Buffy/Star Trek fanfic "Where No Slayer Has Gone Before" was voted "Best Crossover" on the vampyrephantasy.net boards a few years ago. What accomplishments do you have under your belt? Next time check your facts, sir.

As soon as I get my Associate's in Computer Technology from Halverson Community College, I will invite you over to my apartment and you can tell me how the hunt for closet homosexuals at the Burger King on Riverside Drive is going. Or we can meet at your mobile home. Whatever.

Oh, and stop sending me links to racist boards. You racist.

I'll make this short.

Your a fag. You jerk off watching male WWE wrestlers. I fucked your sister. You didn't dispute any nof this. Your a tool. Your self-deprecating humor is a clear cut sign of low self esteem.

In other words, you are the the typical male Buffy/Vampyre fan archetype.

Markie, Just ignore them.

They only tease you because of the stupid things you say when you follow up. Just ignore them and they'll give up.

Stop giving them reasons to tease you. It only makes you look more stupid.

Take a break from the radio groups for a while, Maybe work on your moon bounce some more or clean up your yard.

I rather thought it was him. However, he's never won anything -- he's been nominated on numerous occasions, though, I believe, generally for the crappier awards. It's nearly time that changed...You, OTOH, don't have to worry. The GK is all yours, at this point.

Unfortunately it was Mark Morgan's personnel trolls from rec.radio.policy
When Mark started posting to our group rec.radio.cb, his first post was about putting beer in his rectum (just a bit off topic IMHO). He cross posted to policy which brought his entourage of trolls with him. One of them decided to x-post to AUK and ta-daaaa, here you are. I hate that our group has to suffer from Mark and his trollers, but what's done is done so I'm in for the ride I guess. Where do I cast my votes and or nominate candidates, I might as well adapt to the environment, eh?

My dad owned a tropical fish store for about 25 years or so. I worked in it off and on from the age of 9 until I moved away. I had access to any fresh water fish I wanted, he even paid me to breed certain types.

Oh, quite -- I like your attitude. For tips on how to identify k00ks, go to the link, and check out answers 6, 7, and 21-25. This is from the FAQ:

http://www.netcabal.com/auk/faq.html

8. How do I present a Kook on this group?

The preferred technique is to get the suspected Kook to start posting to AUK so that we can all see him/her/it in all their first-hand Glory. You can do this by posting followups to the suspect's weirder messages, with your followups nonchalantly crossposted to AUK. If the suspect responds to your messages without editing the Newsgroups line, you've achieved your goal.

Another acceptable method is to repost, complete and unedited, one or two of the suspected Kook's recent rants. If you do this, please provide a brief intro in the header describing what the hell you're doing, such as indicating who this person is, what group you found the message on, or why you think the rest of us should give a rat's @$$ about it.

You should be aware that if you try this with some perfectly reasonable posting, you may be flamed to net.hell and back and probably suspected of being a net.loon yourself. It is also considered extremely lame to nominate someone as a Kook simply because you have lost, or at least failed to win, a debate with them; persistently doing so is likely to get you nominated for Kook Awards. That someone fails to perceive the self-evident, unassailable wisdom of your viewpoint does not, in and of itself, constitute Kookery.

==========

Remember, logic is a kookologist's first tool, then flaming and trolling, and always humorously, if possible (dealing with Outer Filth is not usually very funny, as a rule, for example).

You don't have to worry about bandwidth, for one thing. OTOH, at least one kookologist does have reason to worry, but obviously doesn't actually bother. So why net.KKKop? Usenet isn't "nice", outside of the moderated groups. It's rough-and-tumble, mean, nasty, brutal, flaming-hot, and not for sissies ("sissies" being anyone who thinks we should all be "nicer" to one another). Unless you have a genuine mental disorder that makes you potentially dangerous to yourself, there is absolutely no reason we shouldn't have at you with full-blown mockery. Net.KKKopping is contemptible, almost as low as Outer Filth.

He does have a mental disorder (dyslexia he claims), but he is of no harm to himself. He does however threaten others with bodily harm and even made a few death threats. He has even "challenged me to a duel". Idiocy is not a mental disorder that I am aware of.

You chose the same day at a time that you knew I was at work and would not receive your post until it was too late to accommodate you. Your choice of the time and place was bogus and you know it. You have made death threats towards me, it's in the Google archives, and can be backed up by the readers of this NG. You troll the group pretending to defend your homosexuality, yet I only asked you to not post your sexual preference on a radio NG as I could care less who you sleep with. Your first post to this group was about your beer enemas. You claim to be a Kentucky Colonel, yet have never explained any details of how you supposedly achieved this.
You are nothing but a troll that butchers the English language and desperately seeks negative attention from anywhere you can get it. You are an admitted liar and teach your children that it's ok to lie also. YOU Mark Morgan, have no life outside of Usenet. You should be nominated for coward of the month and the golden killfile. Hopefully AUK will recognize your kOOk potential and reward you with distinction. I know that any nomination you get, I will be voting for you.

Damn, you guys are childish!

How's this for your set-to hissy fits?

I don't like Liberals! I don't like butt -pluggers, I don't like Wetbacks, I don't like rap music, I don't like seeing 14 year old white girls pushing baby buggies with half-breed black babies around the local mall, and I don't like Illegals getting Driver's Licenses.

I also do not like seeing theatre marquees with Spanish over riding the English version. I live in the United States, I do not live in Mexico City. And when I use an automated check out lane? I speak English, thank you just the same, Wal-Mart!

actually, piggy, ive posted about 8 pictures of my penis to usenet over the last ten years. so much so that folks in the flonk wont even download my files in ABMF without asking whats in them for fear of another penis pic.

please do your homework next time, little piggy.

hardly as medial devices are increasing ly conected to the bot and hackers can in fact affect lethal harm to their victums indeed if someone were hack enough into my home this winter and altered the programing of medical device oe might have killed my home man

Let's keep the CB'ers on CB.

1: No more automatic renewals. Individuals must retest and pass all elements required for their license class.

2: The passing score for written exams needs to be raised to 85%.

3: Code elements should be 13 wpm for General, and 20 wpm for Extra.

4: Make the no-code license one year non-renewable.

Tnx, 73

he gets even less than you doc the CBer that want to use ham spectrum will (with or likely without a licnse depending on there motives and how ridicolous the license requiremnt are)

everything he can't control burns is ass the No Code techs the Cber's and even worse the part 15 experimental users

This is an error, for which I apologize. I meant August 27th, which is a Sunday. I can then post the ballot that night, have a week for voting, and get the ballot out before Labor Day. That way, I can legitimately claim that it is indeed a summer ballot!

Alexa's nomination accepted and alt.alien.visitors added so she can see her recognition.

>>> DR. POSTMAN'S "STOLEN KIDNEY" AWARD

This is a "misprint" for which I apologize. I copied and pasted Double-A's nym once too many times. This entry is now striken. Besides, Double-A is not a paranoid, just a crank scientist and kooky legal theorist. (alt.astronomy added so Double-A can gloat/foam/meltdown as he chooses.)

Therefore, Kazoo is now running unopposed. Are there any other paranoid candidates worth nominating to run against the Living Sovereign Christ?

Sure, you're eligible. After all, it is by your authority that I'm doing Fluffy's work on AFA-B.

And, yes, Tholen projects, as he shows ample evidence of having attribution problems, reading comprehension problems, and lack of responses.

Nomination accepted.

Yes. And he is lame. It also helped that Snarky poasted a good argument in favor of his nomination. If this nomination is seconded, I'll accept it. I'm adding rec.radio.cb so Mark can tell me to cease and desist and DrDeath can have a chance to second, should he choose.

At the very least, you need a great deal more training. That's if I can work up the interest to bother with you for so long. Wiseman's much more fun to kick around. Man, did I really just say that? Yeesh. There are no

Isn't yours to use, that's right. You behave like a lame net.KKKop k00k, you are one, on usenet, because how you behave on usenet is how you are on usenet. Simple, no?

Oh, well, at least you're learning _something_! Look at Mark, he can't even figure out that he won't get slapped if he just refrains from using "that" word. Now you just have to learn not to talk back to your betters, and all will be well.

I can't speak for others, but when AUK leaves you will reenter my killfile.

I never said a word about gay bashing, that is a delusion in your own mind.
I am however blaming you for AUK being here. I only ask that you keep your personal sex life personnel. But that won't matter as I have stated that when AUK leaves I will killfile you and you will no longer exist to me.

another of the kooks

you think that you and the Demon can type the word bitchslap means people are afraid of you inddeed trans YOU and demon haven't learned you can't slap me at all you insist usenet isn't real, slaping would be, and if you want to try slaping you will have to stay standing long enough to do it

no indeed

what it simple is that you are a kook

kooks need to be called kooks till go and get mental help you can type bitchlsp all day if you like you can't do it grow up

why not?

or how much you want to bet Doc and how do I get paid these usenet kooks are like to cowardly to even post their own name let alone try to hit someone you will do try under conidctions where you get conduct an ambush.

I gave no such order. The post remains intact and does not support your accusation.

You are not a CBer, nor do you post CB related material.

Reasons for what?
I have NO interest in your sex life.
A search of Google bears out my claim that you rarely post on topic.

You are not allowed to call others kooks, as you are one.
I control nothing but my own actions, if I am controlling you it is of your own volition.
I have not bashed you for being gay, you hide behind that hoping for a prince on a white horse to rescue you. I have however asked you many times to keep your sex life out of RRCB regardless if you are hetro or homo, I just don't care.

Now I'm even less likely to be plonked by you than I was before.

So what else have you got, besides "cease and desist" and "get a room" and "I know you're a kook but what am I"?

All slapping is virtual, of course. Your inability to understand that this is a virtual medium, thus all action in it is also virtual, is an additional sign of your kookiness. Anyway, at least I have you following one order. Do it again.

Until you understand why this keeps happening, it will keep happening. You are a lame, idiotic (regardless of your IQ) net.KKKop, just like Scoville (but without his monumentally frothing scale), and that means you are a k00k. I have yet to come close to violating my ISP's TOS, meaning that all you can do is (kookily) whine about me x-poasting. You should try reading the AUK FAQ sometime -- it's most enlightening. An unwillingness to read it is another k00ksign.

K00KSIGN!!! And how, pray tell, is this "real"? Words on a screen? It's all always bullshit, except when it's crazed stalker-kookiness.

> and you and the orifonal poster both need help

Well, no argument about cw_two_cool -- uttering such implied death threats as he does above is a clear sign of that.

> why becuase yu are <BITCHSLAP>

Now, now. Don't be a bad boi.

"Exist" as a mass noun? The set of exist that is a set of the basics of the universe is real. What about the (inferred) rest of it?

It could very well be that you aren't a kook at all, but merely misunderstood. I found something helpful for you:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Comma_(punctuation)

You even struggle with these harmless creatures in your group line, for heaven's sake:

alt.usenet.kooks, rec.radio.cb, , alt.fan.art-bell, alt.fucknozzles

The comma is your friend!

Hello Jim.

Twats are a good description.

I've been kinda busy lately so I breeze through here and only open posts from people I recognize, sorta like reading email. I'm trying to get my barn ready for paint so that's been taking up most of my spare time. (wtf is spare time?) :p

At any rate, nice to see you post again. Didja get your tower up yet?

DrDeath is obviously the only sane one in the rec.radio.* froups, given that he perceives that usenet isn't serious business, unlike sex and violence and rock'n'roll.

Hail Eris!
Demon Prince of Absurdity
Looney Maroon nominee for August 2006 Johnny D Wentzky foamed:
"You never asked someone who goes into areas of the internet that are only for adults who has an underage id somehow or another if they are a cop posing as an underage person online?
I guess lots of people just don't watch dateline or read stories much.
Why don;t you go to pervertedjustice,com and see what they do. They are awash in their self-proclaimed glory after they lied to membners of the public.
They are awash in their self-proclaimed glory after they posed as an underage person and agreed to do all sorts of sex acts wioth adult males, and they are adults posing as teenager themselves. They make themsleves into liars by falsely impersonating underage persons and by not fuilfilling the words they tell the victims online in their chats.
Why don't you read it where they tell these victims of their deceit about how they have been with grown men and such? Why don't you read it where they say, "That would be cool." after someone makes an advance towards an adult who is posing as a teenager? And, where they agree to meet the person, etc.
Lost control, didn't you?
Is that why you feel as if you need to lie so much now? I see where lots of these false impersonation games are not sticking. They feel as if they can lie and then order the victims to get counseling in the gayblade, governmental, pro-choice tax leech counseling centers. They are doing nothing more than usury and fraud in many cases." -- Wentzky almost comes out of the closet as a pedo/ephebophile in MID: <H%%Eg.28916$Uq1.22411@bignews6.bellsouth.net>

Why? Because I x-poast and keyboard mean and nasty words on a screen?
Awwww. I guess you'd better go have a cry. Not much else you can do, except reply in kind.

No, we want your sorry ass to stay on CB. Better ham radio exams will help. Let's keep the CB'ers on CB.

1: No more automatic renewals. Individuals must retest and pass all elements required for their license class.

2: The passing score for written exams needs to be raised to 85%.

3: Code elements should be 13 wpm for General, and 20 wpm for Extra.

4: Make the no-code license one year non-renewable.

I hereby propose the following:

we work together to rid the radio groups of the kooks. they're nothing, and we can run them like the sissies they are. they just didn't know how tough us radio guys are.

i will then team with you aganist the gay/bi bashers.

RRAP

Also add groups of your choice.

kooks should be giving time to surrender.

I have a better idea.

Lets require all Ham radio operators take an I.Q. test. Only upon passing the test would an operator be allowed Amateur privileges. A score of 130 would be required. This would eliminate 98% of hams and also eliminate overcrowding of the band.

The 98% of Amateurs who flunk would automatically be termed CBers. This shouldn't be a problem because 98% of Amateurs are nothing but self glorified CBers anyway. They just would never admit it.

Problem solved.

It's as real as I mean it, and as real as you choose to take it. Since you clearly consider your rec.radio.* froups to be "real", and keep trying to divert me out of at least one of them in many of your replies to me, Pee-Wee, my slaps must needs be real enough for you -- otherwise, there'd be no need to net.KKKop, since you could just ignore them.

You can't ignore them. You can't ignore me. My slaps hurt, and I own you.

> nothing that happens can unreal <BITCHSLAP>

<reading the missing verb> Obviously not. Otherwise, you could've ignored me ages ago. Reality is in the mind, and is always in the mind.

My slaps hurt, don't they? You know how to make it stop.

> indeed with the mention eris I would thhink you would know that THOUGHT is > real and cases real wrold results

Of course I know thought is real. Virtual slaps are thoughts, too. They're as real as anything else...You certainly can't ignore them, or you would.

> you a fake and flake and of course a <BITCHSLAP>

You are such a dilemma. Maybe you need to go back to boot camp, or something.

That's still a slap. How much stays in (of what you write after the slap) is entirely up to my whim. They're thoughts of slaps, and thoughts are real, as you yourself pointed out. Now, I, Snarky, do hereby claim rusemaster of their incest cloned Third Reich. In other words, you're communicating with an intellectual if not a biological clone of Hitler.

SPNAK!

That's good. Makes my spnak-claim on you that much firmer. This _is_ real, so my slaps do hurt, but you can't admit it.

Really. You _are_ a fucking k00k, ain'tcha? Why do my non-slaps hurt worse than my slaps, hmmm?

Most 12-year-olds don't have my vocabulary, Pee-Wee. Anyway, usenet is for entertaining people and being entertained by them, and as long as I keep getting good reviews, I won't worry about the bad ones. Instead, I'll just keep on entertaining myself with you.

Mmmm, nah, I don't think so. Net.KKKops are all k00ks, primarily because they're impotent, they know they're impotent, and they keep on trying anyway. Nothing you can do to stop the x-poasting, except give up and hope it'll stop, one day. Which it might.

I think it means that I'm disrespecting you and your words, k00k, because they're k00ky. You are an impotent net.KKKop, unless you turn into a crazed stalker (if you go real-life -- because there's only one kind of stalker, the crazed kind), in which case you may end up with a Bobo Award.

If you honestly think usenet means more than words on a screen to me (except when it comes to Outer Filth, because they're slime), you're the one that needs help.

Sure I do. You just can't admit it. That would mean admitting I have power over you, and can make you reply to all my posts to your radio froups.

Not at all. You take it real, and I have to do likewise, which means bringing the cops in, because I have no desire to engage you in the brick'n'mortar world. Since I don't know what kind of real-life k00k you are, I'd have to assume that you're as crazed and dangerous as Woger pretends he is. You haven't done that, so far, so I have no reason to assume anything about you except that you're just another idiotic net.KKKop without a badge.

> just another <BITCHSLAP>

Now, see, you were doing so well, then you had to go use words you don't have the clearance, as a k00k, to be using. If you ever realise that this is a lark, a bit of light entertainment, post about it.

Declaration of Independence of the 13 united States of America: July 4, 1776

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident:

That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining, in the mean time, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution and unacknowledged by our laws, giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity; and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE

AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident:

That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining, in the mean time, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution and unacknowledged by our laws, giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity; and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE

AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Many of them don't even have the word "vocabulary" itself. Your lame is noted and dismissed, while your group snecking is defeated. I am your

Declaration of Independence of the 13 united States of America: July 4, 1776

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident:

That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. Declaration of Independence of the 13 united States of America: July 4, 1776

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining, in the mean time, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution and unacknowledged by our laws, giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity; and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE

AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Because I, your Supreme High Overlord, hath decreed it, for one thing!
Also, because you're a k00k, and k00ks don't get to call anyone "kook".
You're a kook because you net.KKKop, and you net.KKKop because you have control issues you can't admit to having. Net.KKKopping is always futile, beyond reporting genuine abusers, and I'm not one of those. Hence, you are doomed to a life of constant frustration and fulmination.

LOL! Nah, it's just I don't deal with my online k00ks on an offline basis.
I have no particular desire to see anyone put in prison, or to kill anyone, see them get killed (or even put 'em/see 'em get put in the hospital), or to have anything like those options happen to me. However, I'm not living in fear, either. What happens, happens. If my x-poasting upsets you enough, you'll do whatever you'll do. This is usenet, and if you don't feel like taking it seriously, don't. Ha, for that matter,

He has admitted to being dyslexic in a previous post. He then recanted and said I was not worth the time to check spelling and punctuation.
RRAP produced him, they certainly need to be included in all replies to him and his loyal trollers. Not to mention they are in the next vote, certainly they would like to know the results.

Iran's leadership is behaving delusionally, since Israel clearly exists (as much as any nation can ever be said to "exist"). They'd do as well to deny that /I/ exist. OTOH, your "LORD" cannot be proven to have ever existed, since the gospels were all written long after (or have even less reliable provenance than the four that made it in) the alleged "apostles" allegedly lived, all contemporary historical records which make any mention at all of Him only refer to his followers, _and_ "he" could have been any of three people over a period of several decades (none of whom were born at quite the right time, and none of whom were ever confirmed to have "risen" after death). Your "faith" has meaning only to you. You would do well to keep it to yourself.

Let me explain something to you, Outer Filth: What's on usenet stays on usenet. Actual stalkers are psycho-kooky enough, but anyone who outs personal contact info as a weapon against their enemies is a cowardly k00k. You have no honour, no integrity, and no ethics. K00k, coward, clueless newbie, and Special Ops Cody -- that's you and your "buddies".

I suppose I may seem "self-important" to you, since you're not important at all, except in the sense that you're one of my k00ks, thus it's my business to get you the votes you need to win your awards.

So fucking what? That doesn't excuse outing it in subject lines, especially not x-posted subject lines. No one has permission to do that to anyone else.

> You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a > pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it.

Oh, wah wah wah. You and your Outer Filth confederates were trying to use AUK to do your dirty work, and it backfired, because outing someone else's personal contact info, no matter how much they've let everyone know about it, is a k00ksign, a sign that someone has effectively lost a flamewar with one's opponent (in your case, apparently, without getting around to the actual "war" first) and has had to resort to craven measures, to go "real life" on someone, to "win". You big baby. You and your buddies are the "pathological abusers of usenet", and /you/ are rightly despised for it.

And BTW, WTF did you think was going to happen? You'd just x-post to AUK, get him nominated for a bunch of awards, and that would be that?
Nominations -- successful ones that lead to awards being won -- are always preceded by weeks or even months (in some cases, years) of cross-posting, because we(tinw) don't automatically accept claims that someone is a k00k based on a few posts. I have very high hopes for you, however, you and your friends, because you've all displayed magnificent density of brain, cowardice, cluelessness, and sheer, stark raving mad k00kiness.

> You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by > a couple of guys with baseball bats.

Oh, please, get over yourself. If I'm "afraid" of anything, it is that something could happen to a certain family member if my location of the moment is revealed, simply because psycho stalker-k00ks don't often care whom they hurt, as long as they get /close/ to the mark. However, there isn't much chance of it happening. Hence, the reason I give a shit is because this is usenet, and what's on usenet is supposed to _stay_ on usenet, dumbfuck.

> Other people don't have this obsessive fear.

A lot of other people are clueless about usenet, too. They don't realise there are genuinely psycho/sociopathic stalkers on the groups, looking for targets of opportunity. Outer Filth like you are nothing more than the scummiest sort of terrorists, because you don't even have the courage to blow yourselves up along with your victims. You risk nothing by being an Outer, nothing besides your reputation. Since you and your buddies are all Goo-Goo Groupers, that ain't saying much. Harrington risked the most, of all three of you -- or do _you_ have the courage to out yourself? -- since he used his legalname in posting.

Incidentally, my legalname is online, somewhere. Not my address, since I moved recently, but my name is. Considering my face is as well, I'm not very anonymous.

> Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing > that anyone else added was hidden in any way.

Soooo not the point. He had the right to post his own info, but you and the Outer Filth didn't -- not to post /his/ info. You are always free to post yours. I wonder if you have the courage to x-post yours, too? You could lose "Coward of the Month" to Dave Tholen, if so.

> You're

Kicking your arse? Yep.

> so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about > different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

You are Filth. You call me "scum" because I x-poast? Boo-hoo. Clealy, Sir is not cut out for usenet, if he thinks his group ought to be sheltered from the big bad meowers.

> Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe.

Really? Awww. I'm so hurt! Here I thought you wuvved me. Where's your pic, so people can compare?

> You are the coward without ethics.

Right, suuuuurrrrrre. CROSS-POASTING IS EVUL! BURN THE CROSS-POASTER!!
Please. Your logic is twisted into a four-dimensional pretzel. You're so hurt and angry about that meanie Ward Hardman and his nasty limericks about someone's head being up their arse that you don't see you're worse than he ever could have dreamt of being.

> You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are.

That's "fuckhead", please. I have a reputation to maintain, you know.

> Those who want to remain anonymous do so.

I guess that would include you. Convenient, that.

> There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the > sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists.

True, you're just a small-time terrorist. Hell, you even had to have Ward do all the heavy lifting for you, such as getting him to reveal his full name, address, phone number, work email, everything. Then you, "James", and Harrington started posting it in subject lines, and after that you x-poasted it, too. Fact is, you and "James" were x-poasting it for quite awhile before anyone really started paying attention to you. I think everyone knows by now who the real "scum" are.

> That's because I chose to be anonymous.

Gee, I wonder why? Maybe it's because you've been living for nothing but trolling Ward for the past two years and more? Nahhh, couldn't be. That'd be sad, that would.

> Some people don't.

We(tinw) have quite a few prominent kookologists who are very far from anonymous, including the FNVW, the FNVW Emeritus, and a bunch more, though they've largely stayed out of this, to date. My point is, they've all x-poasted more than I have, and they're all still around. I have no fear of being attacked just for x-poasting, no. Sorry, you'll have to peddle your delusions somewhere else.

> Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity > which leaves you in constant fear.

Really, I'm not "afraid" -- it's a rush. Furthermore, I've been no more than semi-anonymous for five or six years, and a lot less than that for nearly four, so this month has been most exciting.

> What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

Projection noted. My personal contact info (aside from gmail) isn't online. Only my face and legalname are. That's enough for a determined stalker, but I think you're just a small-timer.

George Pickett Memorial Trophy

For that which does the greatest impression of Pickett's Charge in any given month. Winning the Pickett Trophy generally requires the sacrifice of common sense, decency, and reputation to win an unwinnable argument, to reverse an imperceptible slight, or overcome an insurmountable barrier.

==========

For repeatedly making the sort of argument given above, an argument that is totally self-serving and without any sense of decency, that sacrifices any possible reputation he might have with the argument that, "It doesn't MATTER if I outed someone's personal contact info in cross-posted subject lines", I do hereby nominate <wfh_jr@hotmail.com>, of The Outer Filth Trio (Does anyone else think they sound like a c/w band?), for the George Pickett Memorial Trophy.

Seconds?

You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way. You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. Some people don't. Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity which leaves you in constant fear.

What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

Hail Eris! mhm 29x21; TM#5
The God of Odd Statements
Stupidity Takes Its Toll. Please Have Exact Change.
Please remember to vote Outer Filth John Harrington, "James C. Cracked", and "Ward Hardmanure"/"Pete"/<wfh_jr> for KotM, CotM, CNotM, and the Special Ops Cody Memorial Award!
Thread where outing begins: http://tinyurl.com/hojf8
Also vote Ward Hardmanure for Order of the Holey Sockpuppet!
For the August ballot coming Sept. 1st to a newsgroup near you
George Pickett Memorial Award nominee <wfh_jr@hotmail.com> on outing personal contact info in x-poasted subject lines:
Plenty of people post under their real names and do not attempt to hide their contact info. You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it.
You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way.
You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. Some people don't. Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity which leaves you in constant fear.

What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

Thank you.

I don't expect people who don't know me to appreciate all of my associated with inbreeding).

That said, if it appears to become a habit, I'll consider adding

I'd be both, but the CB'ers would have to agree to:

1: No more automatic renewals. CB'ers must retest and pass all elements required for the Extra class.

2: The passing score for written exams needs to be raised to 85%.

3: Code elements, 13 wpm for General, and 20 wpm for Extra and CB'ers.

4: Make the no-code license one year non-renewable.

Tnx, 73, Keep up the good work. Burp.

Omega One staff:

N90GL, The Re-Todd, Owner/manager. -Doesn't drink beer from a can.

AB8MQ, Woger, Chief Engineew. -Spends alot of time with the janitor.

KB9RQZ, Markie, Program Director. -Wants his own radio show "bE gaY ToDaY"

N0VFP, Llooooydie, Janitor, toilet bowl turd cleaner and Wiener washer.

K4YZ, Steben, Medical Dept and receptionist, Beer enema specialist.

Staff get-togethers and private functions every friday: naked Twister while trying to hold beer enema's. Things get messy, but they don't mind.
Look at Markie squirt, got steben right in the eye. The Re-Todd laughed so hard it came out his nose. Janitor Llooooydie forgot his mop, but he likes Dark beer so that ain't a problem. Engineer Woger's knob is small, so he fiddles with everyone elses knobs.

End Station report.

George Pickett Memorial Award nominee <wfh_jr@hotmail.com> on outing
personal contact info in x-poasted subject lines:
Plenty of people post under their real names and do not attempt to hide

their contact info. You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it. You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way. You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. Some people don't. Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity which leaves you in constant fear.

What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

Quite so! As Teh Secretary to Teh Emperors of MEOW, I am fully empowered to x-poast as widely as my ISP will permit.

You, along with everyone(tine) else, have to abide by TOS of whichever NSP you may use (Goo-Goo, in your case), meaning "permission" is in fact a concept with meaning. _You_ are a usenet abuser, all because you couldn't deal with another troll's limericks.

Special Ops Cody Memorial Award!
Thread where outing begins: http://tinyurl.com/hojf8
Also vote Ward Hardmanure for Order of the Holey Sockpuppet!
For the August ballot coming Sept. 1st to a newsgroup near you
George Pickett Memorial Award nominee <wfh_jr@hotmail.com> on outing
personal contact info in x-poasted subject lines:
Plenty of people post under their real names and do not attempt to hide their contact info. You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it.
You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way.

You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. Some people don't. Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity which leaves you in constant fear.

What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

I have been assigned psychiatrist to cb'ers and hams.....they're much more alike then they'd like you to think.I have been informed the kook/assoc groups are now subjects of the empire and are now bound by the government of the Great Radio Empire.

As such I have been instructed to offer these mandatory services to the kook/assoc groups.

Your G.R.E. citizenship classes will begin shortly.

Nope, just plain nonsense. I can't make heads or tails of it. Perhaps you need a lie down?

BTW, nice meltdown! Very foamy.

Not. Telling me where not to post is effectively the same as telling me where /to/ post. You have no right to claim it as a private group, since it is clearly not moderated.

> I I discuss what is aproprate to post there <BITCHSLAP>

By all accounts, it's a flame group anyway, especially if Wabbit's in it.
Therefore, "anything I bloody well please" would cover the description of "what is appropriate to post there".

How long will Rothschild be able to keep the Federal Reserve afloat with the farcical nuclear weapons pretext in order to back the failing US dollar/Euro?

Answer-> Not long. Europe and the USA are out of oil. And the Saudi fields are collapsing. And nuclear weapons are obsolete and ineffectual.

U.S. built major Iranian nuclear facility

By Sam Roe
Tribune staff reporter
Posted August 23 2006, 9:56 PM EDT

In the heart of Tehran sits one of Iran's most important nuclear facilities, a dome-shaped building where scientists have conducted secret experiments that could help the country build atomic bombs. It was provided to the Iranians by the United States.

The Tehran Research Reactor represents a little-known aspect of the international uproar over the country's alleged weapons program. Not only did the U.S. provide the reactor in the 1960s as part of a Cold War strategy, America also supplied the weapons-grade uranium needed to power the facilityï¿½fuel that remains in Iran and could be used to help make nuclear arms.

As the U.S. and other countries wrestle with Iran's refusal this week to curb its nuclear capabilities, an examination of the Tehran facility sheds light on the degree to which the United States has been complicit in Iran developing those capabilities.

Though the International Atomic Energy Agency, the United Nations' nuclear watchdog, has found no proof Iran is building a bomb, the agency says the country has repeatedly concealed its nuclear activities from inspectors. And some of these activities have taken place in the U.S.-supplied reactor, IAEA records show, including experiments with uranium, a key material in the production of nuclear weapons.

U.S. officials point to these activities as evidence Iran is trying to construct nuclear arms, but they do not publicly mention that the work has taken place in a U.S.-supplied facility.

The U.S. provided the reactor when America was eager to prop up the shah, who also was aligned against the Soviet Union at the time. After the Islamic revolution toppled the shah in 1979, the reactor became a reminder that in geopolitics, today's ally can become tomorrow's threat.

Also missing from the current debate over Iran's nuclear intentions is emerging evidence that its research program may be more troubled than previously known.

The Bush administration has portrayed the program as a sophisticated operation that has skillfully hid its true mission of making the bomb. But in the case of the Tehran Research Reactor, a study by a top Iranian scientist suggests otherwise.

After a serious accident in 2001 at the U.S.-supplied reactor, the scientist concluded that poor quality control at the facility was a "chronic disease." Problems included carelessness, sloppy bookkeeping and a staff so poorly trained that workers had a weak understanding of "the most basic and simple principles of physics and mathematics," according to the study, presented at an international nuclear conference in 2004 in France.

The Iranian scientist, Morteza Gharib, told the Tribune that management of the facility had improved in the past three years. When asked whether sloppiness at the reactor might have contributed to some of Iran's troubles with the IAEA, Gharib wrote in an email: "It is always possible, for any system, to commit infractions inadvertently due to lack of proper bookkeeping."

Jeffrey Lewis, an arms control expert at Harvard University, said bungling might be to blame for some infractions, but the Iranians clearly concealed major nuclear activities, such as building a facility to enrich uranium. "This was not an oversight," he said.

Another overlooked concern about the Tehran reactor is the weapons-grade fuel the U.S. provided Iran in the 1960sï¿½about 10 pounds of highly enriched uranium, the most valuable material to bomb makers. It is still at the reactor and susceptible to theft, U.S. scientists familiar with the situation said.

This uranium has already been burned in the reactor, but the "spent fuel" is still highly enriched and could be used in a bomb. Normally, spent fuel is so radioactive that terrorists cannot handle it without causing themselves great harm. But the spent fuel in Iran has sat in storage for so long that it is probably no longer highly radioactive and could be handled easily, the U.S. scientists say.

The fuel is about one-fifth the amount needed to make a nuclear weapon, but experts said it could be combined with other material to construct a bomb.

In an interview, Linton Brooks, head of the National Nuclear Security Administration, an arm of the U.S. Energy Department, said the U.S. would like to retrieve the U.S.-supplied fuel, but the top priority has been to get Iran to suspend its enrichment efforts.

Under the international Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, Iran has the right to enrich uranium for peaceful purposes. But the UN Security Council, saying Iran has failed to prove it is not building weapons, has demanded Iran stop enrichment by Aug. 31 or face economic sanctions. This week, Iran offered "serious talks" on its nuclear activities but did not promise to stop enriching uranium.

While Brooks downplayed the proliferation risk of the Tehran Research Reactor, some experts believe the facility is so important to Iran's nuclear program that it would be targeted in a U.S. military strike on Iran.

"Its purpose is mainly advanced training and producing a cadre of nuclear engineers," said Paul Rogers, an arms control expert at the University of Bradford in England. "So it's one of the facilities that is really quite significant."

Exactly how significant is unclear. The Tehran reactor provided the foundation for Iran's nuclear program, but that program now consists of numerous other facilities as well. And over the years, Iran has obtained nuclear aid from various sources, including Russia and the black market network of Pakistani scientist A.Q. Khan. China also has supplied research reactors.

Most of the world's nuclear research reactors, which train students or produce radioisotopes for medicine, fall under IAEA restrictions. Agency inspectors have visited the Tehran facility several times in recent years. Iran says its nuclear program, including the U.S.-supplied reactor, is solely for peaceful purposes.

When arguing for tough penalties on Iran, U.S. officials have pointed to activities in the U.S.-supplied reactor.

In 2004, John Bolton, the State Department's senior arms control official at the time, told a congressional panel that Iran's covert nuclear weapons program was marked by a "two-decades-long record of obfuscation and deceit." He cited experiments in the reactor as part of the evidence.

LocalLinks

Several months later, Bolton told another congressional panel that Iran had received technological assistance from companies in Russia, China and North Korea in an attempt to develop missiles capable of delivering nuclear weapons.

Countries that provide Iran such weapons-of-mass-destruction technology "ought to know better," said Bolton, now the American ambassador to the United Nations. If foreign companies aid Iran, the U.S. "will impose economic burdens and brand them as proliferators."

What Bolton didn't note: America's role in Iran's nuclear program.

That role has complicated U.S. efforts to gain support for greater restrictions on Iran. For instance, the U.S. wants Russia to take a firmer stance on Iran's nuclear program and has been critical of Russian efforts to help Iran build a nuclear power plant.

But Russia has noted the U.S. had no problem providing Iran a research reactor and highly enriched uranium when it was politically expedient.

Those who defend the U.S. say it should not be faulted for aiding Iran in the past. "It's not the international community's fault for helping Iran exercise its rights in the past" to develop nuclear energy for peaceful uses, said Lewis, the Harvard expert. "It's Iran's fault for not living up to its safeguards obligation."

Iran's nuclear program can be traced to the Cold War era, when the U.S. provided nuclear technology to its allies, including Iran. In 1953, the CIA secretly helped overthrow Iran's democratically elected prime minister and restore the shah of Iran to power.

In the 1960s, the U.S. provided Iran its first nuclear research reactor. Despite Iran's enormous oil reserves, the shah wanted to build numerous nuclear power reactors, which American and other Western companies planned to supply.

Yet today, the U.S. argues that Iran does not need to develop nuclear power because of those same petroleum resources.

In 1979, when the shah was overthrown and U.S. hostages taken, America and Iran became enemies; Iran's nuclear power program stalled.

The U.S. refused to give Iran any more highly enriched uranium for its reactor, and Iran eventually obtained new fuel from Argentina. This fuel is too low in enrichment to be used in weapons but powerful enough to run the facility. To this day, the reactor runs on this kind of fuel from Argentina.

In papers filed with the IAEA, Iran states that before the 1979 revolution it gave the U.S. $2 million for additional highly enriched uranium fuel for its American-supplied reactor but the U.S. neither provided the fuel nor returned the $2 million.

In 2003, shortly after IAEA officials inspected the U.S.-supplied reactor, Iran acknowledged it had conducted experiments on uranium in the reactor between 1988 and 1992ï¿½activities that had not been previously reported to the agency.

The IAEA rebuked Iran for failing to report these experiments and expressed concern about other activities in the reactor. These included tests involving the production of polonium-210, a radioisotope useful in nuclear batteries but also in nuclear weapons.

Inspectors also were curious why some uranium was missing from two small cylinders. Iran said the uranium probably leaked when the cylinders were stored under the roof of the research reactor, where heat in the summer reached 131 degrees Fahrenheit.

When inspectors took samples from under the roof, they indeed found uranium particles. But inspectors did not think Iran's explanation about leaking cylinders was plausible.

Eventually, Iran acknowledged the missing uranium had been used in key enrichment tests in another facility.

no that just is't true it is has been in bad shape aslong as Wismena nd Robeson have been posting I simply highlighted it

OTOH you lack even the cowarage to post your name meaning it is has a high chance of being Wismen
Many people choose to remain anonymous for good reason. You are obviously not intelligent enough to understand the concept.
Perhaps the recent "anon" phone calls to your father-in-law's answering machine didn't ring your thick bell. Had you remained anonymous that would not have happened. Have any of your fellow Kooks sent you magazine

Even Wiseman "wised" up after being sent a few pizzas. You obviously have not.
No, Mork. Posting with your name and callsign is NOT the signature of a courageous person, but instead the folly of a stupid one.

Oh, well. I don't suppose I had any IMPORTANT plans this lifetime. So it'll be decades of being bitchslapped for you, eh? FINE. Whatever.

Hmph! So you /are/ just illiterate. What you said isn't responsive to my own words. Shithead, the only possible way I could "harm" you was if I took it offline myself -- and I won't do that, because I'm more ethical than you. Nyah-nyah.

Stalker-k00ks are online, yes. Several are "renowned" with multiple awards on AUK, AAMOF. Most of the time, they never get beyond net.terrorism, though.

True, it isn't. So when are you going to start, Pee-Wee?

A lot can change in half a year, and someone on the road to k00kdom (as he was then) can become aware that none of this is "serious" (however "real" it may be), unless people get physical. Then it can be either k00ky or simply life-changing, depending on the circumstances.

True. Seeing him use it on my esteemed colleagues was also snicker-inducing -- even bigger k00ksign.

Mark Morgan and his personal trolls from RRAP ruined the group. I tried on many occasions to talk tech and it always gets met with troll fodder. Even the other techies bicker about stupid crap amongst each other instead of exchanging ideas.
Now watch me get flamed for this post.

Fred has not posted in some time, yet you still bring it up. I had you killfiled and you continued to talk smack about me every time I posted. Tom as you call him simply doesn't like you and voiced such. Quit trying to play like you are just "defending yourself" as you certainly take the offensive whenever possible. You, and anyone with a brain, knows that as long as you remain in this group, it will always be in turmoil. Your life revolves around the drama you create on Usenet.

No, I mealy meant that the accent No Code Lloyd Davies was displaying was "inbred hick".

Merely a communication problem, I meant that No Code Lloyd Davies accent was inbred hick. Your Goddess like qualities are duly noted.

Zounds! Biff! ZAP!!!
That sounds like Mark! He still has his old Cobra 23 channel CB which he runs off a long coax running from his basement to the mag mount antenna on the trunk of his no longer operable, junk car in his father-in-law's back yard. He even has a two amp power supply so he doesn't have to run off the eight "D" cell battery pack he keeps for those northern Michigan hurricanes.
Purty soon though, his daddy-in-law is gonna make him take the coax out of the basement window because the earwigs are crawling in and infesting the house. He told Mark he wants a piece of glass in the winder and wants Mark to remove the duct taped plastic come snow season.
Mark wants to keep the old car and his antenna setup because he says the old klunker has a better ground plane than the discarded refrigerator he used to use. He likes the old fridge, though. It gives him a good ground plane for his mag mount two meter antenna and besides, he done converted the old refrigerator into a storage shed for his clothes that don't fit. He says he likes the old Kelvinator because of the directionality it gives his signals...almost like a beam would. All he has to do is tell his wife to go out back and give the old Kelvinator a shove one way or the other so he can work EME.

So there you are. When Mark ain't spamming Usenet he is on 11 meters giving a "ten-four" and "roger that" and a "I heard that" to his like-minded mental misfits. I heard that, I did. Ten-Four????

For the August ballot coming Sept. 1st to a newsgroup near you
George Pickett Memorial Award nominee <wfh_jr@hotmail.com> on outing
personal contact info in x-poasted subject lines:
Plenty of people post under their real names and do not attempt to hide their contact info. You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it.
You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way.
You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. Some people don't. Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity which leaves you in constant fear.

What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

No need to mention that you are driving Mark Morgan up the proverbial wall.
He is already beside himself in trying to figure out who to spam next.
Your "wit", a very liberal use of the term, has seemingly left Poor Mark

If you can't stop my x-poasting, one fuckload of a lot. All you can do is tear your hair out in frustration, or else realise you can only control your own actions, not mine.

> all you can is impotenly type bitchslap

Spankard, I've already pointed out to you that hypocrisy won't wash with me. If these words are "real" to you, real enough to potentially go "real life" on a x-poaster who's conveniently close to you, then my bitchslaps are just as real. Or else you're just whining about x-poasting because you can't be arsed to use a newsreader, of course. Would you do a thing like that? Naaaahhh...

Makes you, Pee-Wee, a k00k, I know, because you think you can "out-wait" me, as though I'm the only x-poaster who need concern you. Man, are you in for a surprise. We(tinw) have enough endurance to keep this up for years,

Teh action taken by Teh Court of MEOW will not involve any offline activity. Mark will wish it did, though...Usenet humiliation can last a long, long time.

no humilation at least not of me results from the actions of the pussies I mean of meow

but sooner or later they will feel it offline and wonder what happens by there actions they will have provided so many suspects that the real

You could eliminate the tests, or you could increase passing levels and I suspect the results would be the same. Fewer and fewer people joining the hobby.

Mary had a little lamb,
Little lamb, little lamb,
Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow

And everywhere that Mary went, Mary went, Mary went,
Everywhere that Mary went
The lamb was sure to go

It followed her to school one day
School one day, school one day
It followed her to school one day
Which was against the rules.

It made the children laugh and play,
Laugh and play, laugh and play,
It made the children laugh and play
To see a lamb at school

And so the teacher turned it out,
Turned it out, turned it out,
And so the teacher turned it out,
But still it lingered near

And waited patiently about,
Patiently about, patiently about,
And waited patiently about
Till Mary did appear

"Why does the lamb love Mary so?"
Love Mary so? Love Mary so?
"Why does the lamb love Mary so?"
The eager children cry

"Why, Mary loves the lamb, you know."
Loves the lamb, you know, loves the lamb, you know
"Why, Mary loves the lamb, you know."
The teacher did reply

There are MANY reasons why ham may not be as popular. NO ONE reason is THE reason. Code sure isn't it. It didn't stop the many who desired a license from persuing it. If you want to do it - you will - simple as that. EFFORT is the name of the game!

Many a fine CBer has moved up to Ham - and improved the hobby. CODE didn't keep the scum of the bands from operating there ON CB OR now in the Ham bands. SO - CODE IS NOT THE REASON.

With the way you've been talking - you (SC) couldn't even do 85%. SO, you'd be cutting yourself out.

I've said it before, I'll say it again - there are MANY things in life you MUST learn to get by, some by pure need or desire. You "LEARNED" to drive, had to study the rules of the road. You "LEARNED" how to do many other things - and I'm damned sure "studied" things in school - maybe even college or post high school to get to where you wanted to be - maybe took an exam for a job promotion. HAM is just one more thing to "learn". For Christs sakes, if you had EVERYTHING handed to you - it wouldn't be worth having. To JUST have a "DRIVER'S LICENSE" "GIVEN" to you - would produce havoc on our roads. To JUST GIVE AWAY "PILOTS LICENSES - would be devastating to many when they come crashing down. To JUST "GIVE" Radio Licenses away - regardless class or whatever - would produce havoc on the air waves. SOMEWHERE - there HAS to be SOME control.

ANYONE not willing to work for something - is PURE LAZY..... NO other way to put it. I suppose those of you whining and bitching - never had the pleasure of "satisfaction" KNOWING you "passed" a test by KNOWING the material - NOT having it given to you.

THIS isn't ALL JUST about code anymore - our whole freaking nation is dumbing down and that is SAD. AND it is getting to be a "lawless" society where no one cares anymore - they do as they damned well please. Be it on the telephone, radio, highway, waterways, in the air..... where ever - doing whatever - they're not supposed to be doing. Step on your neighbors rights but damned if they're to step on yours. That logic creates more troubles.

This sort of thread will continue as long as there are whiners who don't want to EARN a privelage - they want it "handed" to them. No wonder this country and/or world is so screwed up.

The point I was trying to make is that the amateur radio hobby matured about 3 decades ago. It's membership is aging rapidly and the number of active participants is declining. As the baby boomer generation dies off at an increasing rate the amateur radio hobby will continue to fade away. Fiddling with the test requirements isn't going to magically entice younger blood away from the many other license-free ways of communicating. I would venture to say that you could open the ham bands completely CB style and not get a big jump in membership. There are just too many other interesting, easy to use ways of communicating that that younger people are accustomed to using. I wish it were otherwise.

Making the ham radio test more of a challenge as you suggest misses the point completely. The point is that there will be a diminishing number of people with any interest becoming a ham, no matter what the requirements are.

BULL SHIT? TRY a bit of effort in some of your spelling dude - your website sucks with misspelled words as do most of your posts.

EFFORT IS required in most anything in life - worth having. For some jack off who thinks we NEEDED this war - then why don't you MAKE AN EFFORT TO HELP FIGHT IT. Maybe if we're lucky, you'll be wiped out instead of a soldier who didn't need to be there.

Don't even bother replying jack off. You're barred from my screen.

You "could" be and may very well be right in that regard as to the numbers increasing or not if the bands were completely opened. But since most of this crap evolved around CODE and then the "learning" ability of "exam" material - those issues are not the <complete> problem. As I said, if you want to "learn" anything, effort is the key. All through our lives, we all have to LEARN "something" to make us who/what we are in life. You learn to do your job, even if it isn't from a text book. But, you have to admit - except for sweeping floors, pumping gas, washing windows, etc..... it DOES take "effort" to learn the tasks. Once you master them - then usually it is a piece of cake. "Learning" should never end for anyone - until their number is up here on earth.

In code, you learn ._ is "A". In driving - you learn to put your left turn signal on and then turn the wheel left - to make a left turn in your vehicle. In a factory or on a construction job - you learn hand signals to instruct a crane-man at a job site. Whatever it is - you learn "something" to get you by in life - be it a job, hobby or whatever. In most cases (except code) - NOT learning - could get you or others injured or killed.

I DOUBT - anyone jumped in a car the first day and went and passed their drivers exam - it took EFFORT to learn to drive (safely). I DOUBT anyone - jumped in a plane and passed their pilots test the first time in the plane - it took EFFORT. Even to pass a physical ability test for some jobs - TAKES EFFORT. Any SOLDIER or PRO or even high school/college athlete who has excelled - will tell you that.

To the screwball who said BULL SHIT to "effort" - he claims to be an EME user on his website. I'm DAMNED sure he didn't just wake up one day and decide to try EME - and be eh - fair(?) at it! SOMEWHERE along the line - it took EFFORT to acquire the knowledge, license and materials to do so. Too bad he doesn't make some "effort" to "spell" properly - MOST of his bull shit has been misspelled so poorly, he comes across as a tard. No wonder he gets picked on..... Misspelled words, "NEEDED" wars, etc..... SHEESH. I misspell a word here and there once in a while in error - as do many others. BUT there are SOME who seem to KILL IT when it comes to spelling. They never heard of "spell check"? Can't even make effort to use THAT to make them look a bit brighter.

It doesn't matter how easy or hard the tests are - Code or NO Code - the point here in this thread and others similar is - it seems some want it "handed" to them and all I'm saying is EFFORT will help you get it and you'll be rewarded - your achievement - be it a license, an upgrade in license OR a job promotion with subsequent pay raise or position. So what if you never use the code again to save a life or just to chat on the air - who cares? To pass the muster for some promotions in the service, you have to prove physical ability, and some of those things needed to be done - you may never have to make use of again. Tell your senior officer you're not going to do it and see what you hear in return.....

IF YOU WANT IT BAD ENOUGH - YOU"LL DO IT. Of course - weinie boy who thinks effort is bull shit and believes we NEEDED wars - wouldn't have a clue. So the quiestion is now - did he cheat on his exam and had his license handed to him OR have the equipment donated to not have to make the EFFORT to acquire it all?

Opening up the bands won't be the answer to the "population" of the bands. IF I were God, had a Crystal Ball, I might be able to give the "exact" answer. I've "never" claimed to have it nor do I now. All I can say, is we know where we're headed and it will be interesting in say 5 years or so - to see how we do indeed end up. Changes "could" come about to revive it, open the bands up OR shut them down. Right now, they are somewhat protected by Vongress, but the Congress members are usually able to be bought out by special interest groups - so - NEVER SAY NEVER..... we could be sold out next year if enough of them get their heads together. Then - all of these threads will be moot points. Hell, we may end up paying to type/read this - over and above our ISP payment. There WAS a move to do so..... Nothing to say it couldn't happen if someone tries it again.

Weinie Boy is, by nature, lazy. He is NOT the bread winner in his family and, indeed, sits home all day giving excuses as to why he cannot obtain gainful employment.
And forget trying to shame this obtuse leech into procuring and utilizing a spell check program. He knows better...he's simply too lazy, preferring instead to sit on his rotund arse while he flames Usenet with his drivel.
There are three things you can't give Mark.
1. A job.

a friend sent me this poem a few years ago, i think you will identify with it and enjoy it

More Love

I think I have more love than most why, as a loner, do I make this boast

All around relationships falter while my life doesn't alter

Happy with consistency while others need

need the touch, arousal for their love is sexual and my love internal fun, lively not dull

The US Postal Service is going to want to talk to you, stalker. Your postal mails to my family will be handed over to them.

TITLE 18 > PART II > CHAPTER 203 > § 3061
§ 3061. Investigative powers of Postal Service personnel

(b) The powers granted by subsection (a) of this section shall be exercised only-
(1) in the enforcement of laws regarding property in the custody of the Postal Service, property of the Postal Service, the use of the mails, and other postal offenses; and
(2) to the extent authorized by the Attorney General pursuant to agreement between the Attorney General and the Postal Service, in the enforcement of other laws of the United States, if the Attorney General determines that violations of such laws have a detrimental effect upon the operations of the Postal Service.

Backpedal all you want; stalker. Every single post and email you send is going to be handed over to the proper authorities in due time. Most of your idiocy is laughable at best; but when you started posting the addresses of random Georgia citizens and the addresses of young children in the hopes of endangering their safety you crossed some lines that the Georgia Bureau of Investigation will probably have interest in.

Ok, what if you were stranded on a desert island, and had to use code to save someone's life?
Could you use the coconuts to build a radio in order to send said code?
And if you could build the radio out of coconuts, why not just build one with a mic and speak
the miracle of life into being?

Want to see interest in radio pique?? Open up a band specifically for unlicensed broadcasting. Not CB, not ham, but actual broadcasting. I can see

The problem with young people anymore is that they don't communicate face to face.. if it's not on the phone, or some instant messenger, they don't communicate at all.

You don't serve pork fat on a cat's ass. You serve it on dirty carpeting.

Cooking shows are destroying this nation's culinary identity!

ARRL threw principle out the window when they caved in to the demands of the Lambda Amateur Radio Club (LARC). It was a sad day for me indeed when I opened my beloved QST magazine and there on the pages were photos of queers on a Tropical DXpedition, and in living color no less. The ARRL wanted us to embrace a sick perverted lifestyle and be one big happy family. To me, it was the spark that signaled the death of a once proud organization, and it turned liberal.

Now the queers have all but taken over, they're like the military wing of the Democratic party, and always in your face. It's not even safe to take your kids to Easter egg hunts anymore. I know you're all going to disagree with me, but a man touching and sucking on another man's cock and screwing his ass just ain't right. The ARRL promoted this, now look what happened to our radio groups now that Mark, Roger, and Lloyd have come out of the closet.

That because they're all appliance operators, they don't want to put forth an effort to learn and it will end up sounding like CB.

It wasnt nice to postt that so Iam sending huricane Earnesto overto Orlando to get you. I got naked and prayed to baal tooday and now he wil destr oy you and all of the bsatards in orlando plus Llyod.

That's right. Besides, Roger isn't here to defend himself. Bisexual Mark isn't bright enough to realize it, but Wiseman spends his weekends in jail and can't post here until he is released early Monday morning. You just wait until tomorrow morning. You guys will get it then!

Trolling. That's why you were forged then had a kOOk stroke when I replied to him. Your association with the known kOOk Slow Code is duly noted and will be scrutinized closely.

It's not a lie, go to AUK and see my vote. The point is I truly believe you have what it takes for the Golden Killfile, and I'm behind you 100%.
Consider me your campaign manager.

I just cast my vote, when you win I will rub your nose in it as I would a dog that pooped on my carpet, then I will killfile you until such time that I see you are a nominee for another award. I will then do my duty as an AUK kOOkologist and slap you around some more. It is my goal that you receive the Golden Killfile at some point and you will no longer exist.

You forgot that lloyd Davies is the pizza man / expert TimeDork of the

Todd N9OGL
OMEGA ONE RADIO
13.556.00 MHz LSB
...and STILL going strong!!!

Wrong, Toad. YOU are the Head Dork. Always were, always will be.
And besides, Lloyd Davies doesn't post here. Maybe you should confer with Wiseman, but he doesn't get released until later this morning. Take it up with him.

It's got nothing to do with your perversion, Morkie.

> I notice you are smart enough to avoid coming right out and saying

Why would I?

I know several "bi" people. Most of them are OK enough...but then they don't act like you do, either

> good boy kok

Who's "kok"...?!?!

> >I am enjoying Live inddeed the meow folks are mildly entertains eve if You're not happy, Mork. It's obvious. You're a loser on so many levels as your campaign to smear anyone and everyone here attests.

> >and why would a Nurse Encourage suicide?

> well?

I wasn't suggesting it as a Nurse, Morkie.

I was asking your to do it as a commitment to a cleaner enviroment.

Obviously the enviroment is not one of your concerns.

Steve, K4YZ

OK, Ok, but I have to ask. What the heck is "impy"? I remember years ago when we kids would watch TV on the old black and white tube and watch as Walter Brennan played the part of a guy who was "impy". Or was that 'gimpy'?
Then along came Gunsmoke with Matt Arness and his "impy" sidekick, Chester.
Oh, wait. Maybe Chester (Dennis Weaver) was not "impy" but gimpy. Perhaps Mork could elucidate when his overworked door-greeter schedule permits?
And if Mark doesn't mind, perhaps he can also explain that a "kok" is? Is that an animal native to his northern Michigan area? A cooking utensil?
Funny, but try as I did I couldn't find a definition for "kok" anywhere on line, and my Websters has no such entry, either.
This is a mystery that only Mork Morgan can explain, if you can decipher what he says.

You're probably right on the spelling....Although I did watch a neat piece about the construction of the bridge in the mid-50's...WHEW!

Anyway, I doubt Morkie could find it, and even then he couldn't

...
Oh, I suppose he could ask directions. Somebody would be willing to show him where "down" is. Heck, maybe he could enlist the aid of Wiseman who, I am sure, would be more than willing to give Mark a shove in the proper direction.
On the other hand, the Michigan DNR would most likely take a dim view of Mark being dumped into their waterways. They have more than enough flotsam to deal with as it is.
But then again....what is one more turd in the scheme of the already polluted waterways?

the lie is your claim you are not a gay bashing bigot

This can be SO simple. I should have thought of this weeks ago.
I'll simply x-post Marks comments to two or three of the extreme Muslim newsgroups and be sure that they realize he is a bisexual Jew. Wiseman already posted Marks address....
It should take four or five months, six tops, before a Camel Jockey or two pays Mark a visit. There are lots of em in Dearborn, which is less than a three hour drive from Chassell.

Why didn't I think of this sooner?

Well, as long as you mean it. Once you're gone, we(tinw) can finally nominate (with some hope of getting them elected) other k00ks for the offices you've been hogging. Oh, wait, you've never held office. Well, hurry up, damn you! You have less than a year, so you'd better get serious about this. You have offices to hog, you know.

Indeed, it was a fine nomination acceptance speech. Let's [tinu] hope he'll be as verbose if he somehow manages to pull out a win.

You are indeed correct in the first instance, whereas in the latter, it would depend upon which side of the pond one resides.

Got any radios for sale/trade?

LOL... good catch..

But again, maybe he was a priest presiding over the last ash Wednesday service and ashed the gays then?

It still leaves me wondering if either of them had a radio for trade...?

To learn the technical TRUTH about CB Radio without all the hype from people who are just plain ignorant, check out the following books from CBC International. They're selling right now at a big discounts on our EBAY & AMAZON stores too.

Check it out!

To see exactly what these books look like, plus all the specific, chapter-by-chapter details, see our Web at:

www.cbcintl.com

BOOK #1: THE "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE To Peaking Out & Repairing CB Radios. List $25. The most popular "big dummy's" guide ever published on do-it-yourself CB repairs & modifications. Covers peaking of receivers, transmitters, modulation, mike problems, antenna & SWR problems, detailed frequency modifications for both crystal & PLL radios. Loaded with charts, illustrations, and specific instructions for most brands including the new export models. This latest edition also covers slider and broadbanding tricks, FM conversions, and much more!

BOOK #2: THE CB PLL DATA BOOK. List $20. The only complete reference source on CB PLL synthesizer circuits ever published! Detailed PLL theory explained in layman's terms. How they work, and how to modify them for many more channels. Includes specific PLL block mixing diagrams, truth charts, & IC pin function diagrams for nearly every PLL chip ever used. Covers all the most popular U.S. & export chassis, with specific listings of all models using the chip.

BOOK #3: UNDERSTANDING & REPAIRING CB RADIOS. List $42. Giant 370-page technical book for the professional repairman. Picks up where the "SCREWDRIVER EXPERT'S" GUIDE leaves off. Includes circuit descriptions & troubleshooting guide for 23- & 40-Ch., crystal & PLL, solid-state & tube, AM, FM, SSB, CW, American & export models. Covers test equipment (& where to find it), transistor basics, synthesizers, receivers, transmitters, power supplies, T/R switching, antennas, interference, parts & accessory sources. Over 350 illustrations including schematics, charts, and photos. Huge subject index also lets you look up repairs by symptoms. This is "must" reading for any serious CB technician!

Stupidity Takes Its Toll. Please Have Exact Change.
Please remember to vote Outer Filth John Harrington, "James C. Cracked", and "Ward Hardmanure"/"Pete"/<wfh_jr> for KotM, CotM, CNotM, and the Special Ops Cody Memorial Award!
Thread where outing begins: http://tinyurl.com/hojf8
Also vote Ward Hardmanure for Order of the Holey Sockpuppet!
For the August ballot coming Sept. 1st to a newsgroup near you
George Pickett Memorial Award nominee <wfh_jr@hotmail.com> on outing
personal contact info in x-poasted subject lines:
Plenty of people post under their real names and do not attempt to hide their contact info. You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it.
You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way.
You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. Some people don't. Only really stupid dicks like you choose the sort of semi-anonymity which leaves you in constant fear.

What a dickless wonder you are 'Snarky' you fat asshole.

The quarterly alt.fan.art-bell awards have arrived! Highlights among our(tino) nominees: Alexa "Who?" Cameron vies with Dave "What does that have to do with OS/2, <fitb>?"/"Holy Digestor" Tholenator for the Cleopatra Award; Kazoo faces both Guthball and Warhol for the Chernobyl; Dennis "I know the secrets of the universe, but I'm not telling" B. is up against Ed "Brain of Coal" Conrad (oo-er) for the Angstrom; Kazoo battles teh soc.fr00tz for the Stolen Kidney award; Ben "What Holocaust?" Cramer aims to steal the Brain of Stone from Tholen and Joseph "psests lits"/"Goat-Blower" Bartlo; "oar pin" Tholen opposes Mark "an old freind"/"Pee-Wee Slap-Happy" Morgan for the right to be called Thick As A Brick; Tholen, (dis)Honest John, and Sco-vile shoot it out for the Tinfoil Star, while Sco-vile faces off one-on-one against Double-A for the Offices of Attorneys-at-Flaw, Karczewski, Wollmann, and Stapleton.

Note: Follow-ups set to AUK & AFA-B. Don't reply to this with a request that I/we(tinw) stay out of your group, as that will be considered an engraved invitation to move in. Permanently. _With_ friends, and mortal enemies, and hysterically shrieking net.KKKops.

"fucktard Moron" Tom that is part of the problem you can't address people without throwing out sex laced insults

these tactics made only a matter of time before someone like the meow folks (althought it is looking like there are about 2 of them under all

Ok Mark, you moron. There. I addressed you sans sex. Is that better? Of course, the "moron" part I refuse to retract as it is a proven fact, not an insult.

Tom it can't be proven faact since it is determined by IQ tests and you have no way to admister one to me

nor would I sit still for it but as long as you insist oneenaging in baseless personal attacks you have to expect it in reutn

you have trouble with this basic notion that what comes around goes arround

you are not alone of of course the choas around us is the price deal

Dang you might be my senior with that Korean war stuff..I'm guessing 1967 or 8 as I recall my first CB daze. My dad was in the Navy for 4.5 years in the Korea conflict btw, but that was long before me.

At any rate you -are- the senior CBer here..unless someone else has the stones to claim it? (lurkers wonder in silence)

change the license structure.

forget cw

forget the q/a written

have a fill in the blank test where the questions strictly made sure one knew enough not to hurt themselves or others. not technical,just safety.

fcc agents travel to clubs at various times to conduct exams.

The newly issued license would be issued as an "amateur radio license"..... all current license holders would be issued a new "amateur radio license" along with their current call sign.
All license holders would enjoy all frequencies assigned to the amateur service. No more FCC ordered subbands. we can do that ourselves.

Thats my idea to save ham radio,

I'm not the one that brought AUK to this NG. Markie-tards entourage brought them here, I just agree with AUK methodology towards the kOOks.

I have a sense of humor that would not be understood by normal Usenet users.
Breakdown???? Hardly, I have real life drama in the real world.
I'm glad I surprised you, maybe you have some kookologist in you that can be brought out and used for the common good. If not, expect the worst of me and those of AUK and AFA-B
A breakdown over Markie-tard's lame repeat attempts at insults????
MR.Serious???? Since when? I like to stay on topic, but I'm not opposed to trolling the kOOks of rec.radio.ect. I am a kOOkologist in training. Ask anyone in AUK or AFA-B.

I am off work tomorrow, Wednesday the 30th. I will then respond to all posts that require my attention (if you are lucky), as working 2 jobs and having to deal with REAL life situations, my time is limited. To the trolls of any radio group, FUCK OFF! To the kOOkologists of AUK and AFA-B, I truly apologize for my absence and lack of participation during these busy times, but hey, I gotta make the Benjamin's.

just make sure they aren't going to hurt anything, then have at it.

one class, all frequencies guys like us wouldn,t have to mail in our old tickets,keep'em as keep sakes.just wen the new license arrives thats it "amateur radio license".....the official and only license.

Guys with techs or the old novice allready, well guess

I think he meant that someone was going to fly over him and shit on him like a pigeon.
My favorite part is where Mark says "stroll for flame". Does that mean he is a prostitute that gets paid in insults?

There is actually an other way to reduce noise in the transmister-receiver chain.
This is to use an expander in the transmitter, and a compander in the receiver.
One could use a Philips NE570 chip (if you could still find one) in the audio on each side, but you can also use the NE570 as expander only in a receiver (like your diode, the noise will be less amplified then the signal).

As all this requires electronics, and may pose problms for some, but you can do it with a PC an Linux too, using the sox program:

Compander:
sox example.wav example_companded.wav compand 0.003,.013.5 -80,-40,-60,-30,-40,-20,0,0 1

Expander:
sox example.wav example.expanded.wav compand 0.003,.013.5 -40,-80,-30,-60,-20,-40,0,0 1

With 2 soundcards you can put the CB audio out into one soundcard input, use that PCM as input for sox, and have sox write to the other soundcard for output.
http://panteltje.com/panteltje/cb/

There is a small delay... but you can use it in the transmit side too, add echo and other effects etc..

Digital signal processing.

Here is the future.

Should of course be: compander in transmitter, expander in receiver.
You reduce dynamic range so it matches that of the radio channel.

Brian Burke? Anybody with somebody named "Brian?" No, I'd say you have assfucked and been assfucked some man named "Brian," Markie.

BWHAHAHAHAHA you need mental help then to go get your G.E.D. Markie. Or should I say "try" to pass the G.E.D.

Really, Lloydie, now you claim he works at Wal-Mart when you said he didn't work at all. But even a Wal-Mart greeter would beat being a pizza delivery boy.

Most hammies I've met at hamfests and other venues would likely blast-away with wincing faces and shi+-eating grins even if the Queen of England was present in the room. Hams, for the most part, have no class, poor social behavioural skills and in general dress like bag ladies.

I didn't look up any rules or sections of law anywhere, so I guess I'm answering a question blindly. I'm in Canada, but I felt compelled to answer even if I misunderstood the question.

I believe that government has written into law that a licensed ham should only use the power, or enough power required or necessary to communicate. Ten miles down the road is not a really great distance, contrary to what some CBers think, so maybe you could still use smoke signals to communicate unless you are then violating pollution-control laws, and or harming the tree environment/ecology system of the area by burning code into the sky.

I think that this part of the law still stands in Canada....that one should only use enough power to communicate whether it be an emergency or not.

If I missed your intention by 10 miles, please ignore this post. Thanks,

Jack

Use a jumper wire and short out two pins at a time and write down the pinout. You will have one receive and one transmit and a common. When you find these the remaining pin is for audio.

How is that stalking working out for you, l00n? As good as your homophobia, anti-Semitism, and racism? Still looking to accumulate some sort of record amount of usenet felonies and put young children at risk? I guess that's why you couldn't seem to keep your kids alive - inability to avoid putting kids at risk.

If Steve Parks of Medina Ohio does your lawn care or snow removal; you might want to re-think using this idiot for your professional services. You might also question why he has so much time on his hands and abuses alcohol this way - but the bottom line would remain that you should not use his services in a business environment.

Doug: If you personally have been offended by Steve Parks of Medina Ohio (moparholic@hotmail.com) you should contact your local police or the below names and notify them that Steve Parks is commiting a felony in his harassment of them.

I was just about to correct that one.

A better system involves splitting the high and low frequencies first. As the unwanted noise is at the high frequency end, only high frequencies are compressed and expanded. You can split into more bands, but I think the OP wants simple starter ideas.

One could also use pre-emphasis and de-emphasis, which is very simple. Maybe the OP should start with the ANL and, if he is game for more, go on to try some of the other ideas.

What is it What with is what CB is it and with it echo with CB and echo CB and echo CB and echo and echo echo?

5594. Radio req. for UK/Cept and SSB

I am thinking of returning to CB after an absence of 16/17 years so excuse the ignorance (and the x-post). Can anybody point me in the right direction as far as obtaining a decent radio for both UK/CEPT as well as SSB usage. I have seen the likes of the Cobra 200 GTL DX etc... but I am unsure whether these 10 meter types will allow me to use the UK frequencies or are the just for working the 10/11 meter bands. I see a few reviews of various radios of this type requiring mods to get them to use the UK freqs. I would prefer to be able to use the radio "off the shelf" for both UK freqs and SSB.

As I will be using the radio in a "Shack" (shed to be precise) I will be running from a 12v/110mah battery and, because the battery is only being trickle charged from a solar panel, I do not want anything over-powered (The 100w of the Cobra 200 GTL DX may prove too much of a power draw).

I would be grateful of any recommendations. I have a budget of around £150 (£200 at a push).

Thanks

MC

Well slow code, the new users would be sharing them with you, IF you act nice. Remember, there would be more no subbands. I am very impressed with your 20wpm extra! I'm just a lowly 13 wpm advanced, not smart enough to get that extra mumbo -jumbo..... I know you're much smarter than me.

I will say this sincerely. Would you care to move this qso to 40 or 80 meters? I do mean CW,ofcourse. I'm a little on the rusty side and am still using my old vibroplex. But I'll be dam if I can't light a lucky strike and not miss a beat. And I don't copy with a fucking computer either. It's in my head or when I was working it was copied with a manuel type writer.I can tell if a wuss is sending with a computer,humans can't send that perfect and KEYERS don't count!

Now slow code what ya say? oh BTW, did I mention I worked at WCC for more years than I care to remember. You newer guys should look up WCC,,,,,,,,,,was pretty cool for it's time.

Hey Slow Code ....people could record it and even the no-coders could use there computers to watch me make an ass of you on the much loved CW mode!

Well??
Shit or get off the pot,blow-hard.

Hi there MC,

There are many great radios to choose from these days and many good places to buy them from .

The 10 meter radio may need some kind of conversion to work on the cb bands for example - i used to have a Lincoln for the ham bands and needed a quick mod to go onto the cb bands

For your information CB in the UK will be de-regulated in October meaning you will no longr need a licence but will need to use "leagel" Radios.

The UK 40 will be gone by 2010 leaving us with the "Mid" / CEPT / EU Band of 40 channels AM / FM like here in Ireland

There is a great forum i can recomend that i am a member http://cbradio.10.forumer.com/

i hope this will be some info for you to have a munch on any more let me know

I see you fell out of the stupid tree and hit every branch on the way down.
What do you know about talent? Shania was probably singing in bars and resorts with her guitar to pay the bills before you were even born, that was how she got noticed. It had nothing to do with BJ's, she doesn't stoop to your momma's level.

How long did Steveo Parktard hold his daughter's head in the 55 gallon drum of crop duster DDT before her arms stopped flailing? Was she really going to call the police about him molesting her; or was this clearly a case of him over reacting. I would think his poor decisions were clearly based on alcohol abuse rotting his already simple brain. Do you think he drinks while operating lawn mowers or snow plows?

Q: Why would Steveo kill a child with crop duster DDT?
A: So Steveo could hide pedophilia charges
